Key Metadata Workflows

- Desk Editing: Teams of photo editors in London and in Dublin review thousands of incoming images, determine which of the images will be selected for sale, do light photo edit and augment metadata with detailed keywords. Content delivered to customers in 5+ minutes (depending on the content).
- Field Editing: During live events, we have team in the field that edits and uploads content, delivering it to the customer in under 5 minutes.
- Trusted Partners: Ingestion of selected contributors' content is automated, uploaded and delivered to customer (with metadata mapped) in under 2 minutes.

Editorial Metadata Flows

Not Just a Website - Additional Delivery Channels

FTP Feeds

The industry standard for delivery of editorial content.

Email

Used for targeted delivery of curated content to known customers.

APIs

Used by resellers, market aggregators, and some high-volume customers who want our content to be directly visible in their CMS.

Sneakernet

We find ourselves shipping hard-drives of content with surprising regularity, especially when kicking off a major partnership.

Physical Prints

We have one high-profile customer which still gets a physical printout delivered weekly with content of interest.

Physical Archive

We maintain a substantial warehouse in East London with an archive of 12-15 million negatives and transparencies going back decades - accessible to customers and researchers.
